Acknowledgements

Writing this book was a great experience. In order to make such a positive statement, you must have benefited from the contribution of some special people. So had I, and my initial gratitude therefore goes to Prof. Simon Hug, Prof. Matteo Gianni, Prof. Pascal Sciarini, Prof. Karen E. Smith and Prof. Martin Loughlin. I would like to also thank many academic institutions and foundations that supported my work: the Department of Political Science and International Relations of the University of Geneva and the University of Geneva itself; the London School of Economics and Political Science, its Department of International Relations and the Centre for International Studies with special thanks addressed to Prof. Kirsten Ainley, Dr. John Kent, Prof. Kimberly Hutchings and Prof. Iver B. Neumann; the Scientific Commission of the University of Geneva, especially in the person of Prof. Sandro Cattacin; the Swiss National Fund; the Swiss Academy of Humanities and Social Science and the Ernst & Lucie Schmidheiny Foundation. Many colleagues would need special mention. Among them, I wish to mention Dr. Damiano Matasci, Dr. Samuele Cavalli, Dr. Henry Matz and Dr. Alessandro Nai, whose punctual help was very much appreciated. I sincerely thank the publisher, Springer, in particular in the persons of Neil Olivier, Diana Nijenhuijzen and the two anonymous reviewers, in addition to all those whose work actively contributed to the publication of this book. As regards the contents of the book, I warmly thank John Clifford for his valuable linguistic advices and all those who participated in the survey. Finally, a heartfelt thanks goes to all my beloved relatives and to all my dearest friends to whom I wish to send all my affection. The very final and special mention goes to my loves, my wife Dr. Francesca Pusterla and our son Tommaso Maria Pietro, whose admirable help and delightful presence made possible this book to them dedicated.
